WARWICK CASTLE.

The Wreck by Fire of the Ancient Seat of the Earls of Warwick.

Percription of One of the Most Ancient Ornaments of the Britis' Empire-Old and New-Particulars of the Fire-How the Eurning Geourced-The Art Treasures Destroyed and Saved.

[From the Maachester Guardian, Dec. 5.]

A page of English history has just been destroyed. The ere which broke out at Warwick Castle on Sunday morning last consumed in. Time, War and Change have done their worst to remove from us the ancient lanomarks of the bast; but all these had mercifully passed over the old castle at Warwick and lest it well high scathiess. It was leit by contagres almost intact, until in time of peace a life string from carclessness did that cruel errand waith all cless may she and that from, and one more disservice of that "bad master" is added to the melcancholy catalogue of its evil deels in 1871. Few of the outdings we yet possess had a more historic character than Warwick Casile. In the faint david our automat history the bold scar of rock which overlooks the Avon was chosen by the ancient Briton as a coinn of vantage from which to make a stand against the Roman foc. In later days the Saxons setzing, as was their went, on older loundations, Ethelicita, the queen of the Merchans, raised there a mound and castle, of which traces yet remain. From time to time this was added to, and the structure became the home of some of those whose names are nost filinstrious in our amasts. The Neuburgs—followers of Wilham the Conqueror, as their ancestors had been of Rollo—displaced the Saxon possessors, and held it make the General there is provided the Saxon possessors, and held it make the General the save it passed into the fands of the Beancamp family, of whom Gay, "the black hound of Arden," was the slayer of Pers Gavesion, the favorite of Edward II. Here theed his son, Earl Thomas Beauchasap, who led the van at treer, who fought bravely at Poichers, and who was one of the founders of the "most Noble Order of the Garter." He crecied the Casar tower at Warwick, one of the finest specimens of the military engineering of his day, replete with scientific construction, a defensive work of the highest military interest. genume picture, so far as much of the work was concerned, but probably completed by his papit Raiol o Gaurantajo. Yet its pictures were almost the least of the treasures Warwick held. From the beinet of one of Nerxes' soldiers down to the repund skullcap of Oliver Croinwell; from carry-linked from mail down to the out jerkin of Lord Brooke, the leader of the Farliamentary forces, almost every change of defensive armor was represented there. Early Grook and late Gothac Sculpture brook the dusky granor of so much metal work. Tables of priceless picture dure work bore on them a most glorious collection of Limoges cramel of the highest art, and which was the great attration of each exhibition of this lost process whenever it was displayed. If it be true that the only article saved from the great half was a Riemish carving after the celebrated picture of Rubens, representing the native of the Amazons, all this pricates collection has disappeared for ever.

So far as we can yet learn the fire seems to have broken out in the private apartments of the Countess. These, though of no great size, were a treasure house of art. The drawing foom was panelled round with the fibrat French carving of the time of Louis XVI, rescued from the destruction of Paris under M. Haussoman, and was ming with choice works of modern art, collected by leady Warwick, herself an artist of great notity. The library possessed a goodly store of sixteenth and seventeenth and exparence of art gleanings from almost every city of Europe. The state apariments, which are at the other end of the great half, seem to have promose which have accomplained dains of have escaped and with them, the to be hoped, many heirhoms which have accommunated during the seventeenth and equation in end of the bruding, we trust mis also been preserved. In it was a fine celection of early weapons, especially firearms, the which contained the germ of many a more recent invention. Revolvers of the state and the chart was mannes to human mind. Casket and contents also were equa

In addition to the particulars already given regarding the fire at Warwick Castle on Sunday we have the following from correspondents at Leamington:—

Workmen were engaged yesterday in carting away the debris from the Pulse of the private apartments, the baronal hall and the banqueting hall, which were destroyed by the disastrous fire at Watwick Castle on Sunday. As the still smouldering material was turned over, any vestings of the armory buried beneath the root of the grand hall were picked out and carefully stored away for nature examination. Among these there were portions of iron armor, bout, charred and disfigured, quaint old matchiecks, and bindes of swords and pointards. The outer waits of the private apartments, the baronial hall and the dining half appear sound. The sarvation of the state apartments, the destruction of which at one time scemes inevitable, was due to the massive stone wait which separated the baronial bal from the red drawingtoom. This prevented the extending the hone of the fire from below, and the firemer, can the connection on the root. The god from the murseries, over the barqueting half, where they were reping with the governess, barely in time. A few in lines Honey and the fames would have cut of their private by the barqueting half, to which they would otherwise have had to mass their way across the roof to the state apartments. The footman, when he were they were they were they were they were they are had to flames would have cut of their private by the barqueting half, to which they would otherwise have had to mass their way across the roof to the further have thoughted and correction in the contains also their way across the roof to the further have thoughted and to entering his amond christmas shooting parts, and up-wards of five hundred cartridges were stated in the gunroom. When the fire was approaching the room, Everton rushed into it and carried the animulation into another and distant part of the building. The pictures which were forn from the frames are not themselves damaged; and the fine Brussels tracestry taken from Queen Anne's bedfroom is only stigntly town. The splendul Pictra Commessa table, dowered with lapid lazuli, formerly the property of the uniorimate Marie Anionatta, has also sustained intle dawage. Lord Warwick arrived in Warwick on Standay, from Torquay, and had a lengthened micryle with Captain Forsbery, his agent.

An inspection of the paintings shows that more dawage has been done than was at first believed. Fortunately the exterior of the building has been not sightly injured.

The man Whinam Fincher, whose appreciation was mentioned in yesterlay's Guardian, was charged before the magistrates yesterday with stealing a gold seat, vising £10, and a gold mounted smit box, value £5, the property of Lord Warwick, and was remanded for a week. Bail was accepted, the prisoner himself in £20, and two sureties in £25 each.

That said kimball paid $10.000 for rent of Governor's residence for 1867 and 1838, knowing the rent of same to be only $2.400; for sundry advertisements, not authorized by law, $2.800; and that from the 10th of February, 1867, to the 10th of February, 1863, said kimball issued $10.000 of the funds of the State in making private loans, &c., on which he realized $10.000.

And plaintiff further says she was masble now to designate more particularly the amounts taken, deposined and used by said kimball of the several particular unofs of plaintiff in his hands for the reason that said kimball conceals and has destroyed the evidence thereof, and wholly lailed as was his duty as such Treasurer to make and preserve any record thereof in his said office.

In the second case versus the same, the following bill is hied:—

Said plaintiff, by way of particulars in the above case, says:—That on the — day of February, 1800, of the moneys of the plaintiff in his hands as Treasurer of State, said defendant, Kimball, deposited with the Indiana Banking Company, and continued said deposits therein until the — day of February, 1871, at eight per cent interest, the sum of $200,000; on the — day of February, 1871, in the First National Bank, at six per cent interest, the sum of $200,000; on the — day of February, 1871, in the First National Bank, at six per cent interest, the sum of $200,000; on the State at len per cent, discount, on which he realized par, cearing $25,000; and that the plaintiff cannot give more particular account thereof, because said Kimoali has cancelled and destroyed the evigences thereof, and has wholly failed to make and preserve any record thereof in his office as was his duty.

That said Kimoali, as Treasurer, paid $5,000 for rent of Governor's house in 1869, knowing the rent of the same to be only $1,200.

That the paid same sincount on said claim in 1871.

For sundry advertising not authorized by law, $2,800.

And that from the loth of February, 1869, to the last of the paid same sincount on said claim in of the same to be only $1,200.

That he paid same amount on said claim in 1871.
For sandry advertising not authorized by law, $2,800.

And that from the 10th of February, 1869, to the 10th of February, 1871, said Kimball used $100,000 of the money in his hands in negotiating private loans, on which he realized $10,000.

State of Indiana ex m. Attorney General vs. Thomas B. McCarty, —Plaintid's bill of particulars in said cause says:—That defendant, McCarty, as Auditor of State, deposited of the sinking fund mentioned in complaint as follows:—

In muncie National Bank on the 20th of January, 1807, and continued in said bank said deposit at ten per cent interest until January 24, 1882, $69,000.

In indiana Banking Company on the 20th of March, 1867, and continued in said bank said deposit at ten per cent interest until the 2sth of January, 1802, $30,000.

In the First National Pank, Indianapoils, on the 22d of January, 1867, and continued in said bank said deposit at ten per cent interest until the 2sth of January, 1869, $300,000.

In indianapoils insurance Company, on the 1st of April, 1867, and continued in said company until January 21, 1860, at ten per cent interest, $0,000.

In Chizens' National Bank, Indianapoils, September 1, 1868, and continued in said company, on January 21, 1867, and continued in said bank said deposit at ten per cent interest, $0,000.

In Indianapoils Branch Banking Company, on January 21, 1867, and continued in said bank until January 25, 1860, $30,000.

In Hartson's Bank, Indianapoils, on the 22d of January, 1867, and continued in said bank until January 25, 1860, $40,000.

In Hartson's Bank, Indianapoils, on the 22d of January, 1867, and continued in said bank until January 25, 1860, $40,000.

And that defendant kept immediate convol of $0,000 of said money, which he loaned in various sums to sundry persons, whose names defendant is nuartice to designate, from the 20th of January, 1867, to the 28th of January, 1869, on which he realized in interest, &c., $10,000. That during said ti

The other gui, Eveline, the oldest of the two, still studies, lead as has a large fearful wounds upon the head, from two of which the brains escaped. She gives premise of recovering: is percently rational, watks about the house and converses treely. No further clue to this awful tragedy has been obtained. There is but one opinion, nowever, in Clark county on the subject, and that is that the crime was committed by faylor, Pavis and Johnson, the three negroes using by the Vigilance Committee.

DICHRETIAN CONTINUE WITH LIBERIA.

Civilization—A Colored Missionary on the Situation—Methodist Prenchers on Secturian

The Methodist preachers continued their discussions yesterday on the missionary outlook of the world through Rev. Dr. King and Mesars. Wheatley and Inylor, after which the Rev. Dr. Lloyd, a colored missionary, was introduced and invited to address the meeting. He dat so, with special refercace to the commercial relations existing between the United States, England and other Christian countries and the republic of Liberia, where he has restded for more than fifteen years. Dr. Lloyd is a man about forty years of age, and a native of Africa. He was brought to this country at the ago of five years, and was a servant at various times in the fellow and others, from whom he imbabed ideas and aspirations for a higher education than his people generally exhibited. He, consequently, entered a college in Boston and

GRADUATED A PHYSICIAN, taking the second prize in his clast. His smartness brought him fate notice with merchants and moneyed men of Boston, who furnished him an outfit and money enough to go to Liberia and establish commercial relations for them with that republic. He went, and by one cargo realized for himself 310,000, west, and by one cargo results to the sear returning home, and was shipwrecked and lost everything. A second time he was furnished with functs and went out, and the Alabama captured and burned my vessel in mid-occan. He went to Air ca again and built large warehouses in Monrovia and Bad trem well stocked, when the lighted grade and and consumed them, and from conquarative wealth he was reduced in an nour to almost a solute bewerty. Then it was that he decided to become a Christian and a missionery. He filled the office of Secretary of Sear in the republic, and was colected of the contours in Monrovia, and was effected the second office in keegift of the people, and he could therefore speak with accuracy upon the effect of the commerce of protessesticy christian countries upon the civilization and Cristianization of that dark land. Within the lamits of the republic of Liberra there are 680,000 pagans and 180,000 Christian Africans, who are bright to teach here in he way of life. But all their efforts are overturned by greedy New bork, wew England and Old England merchants, who send on thither cargoes of rum, tobacco, brass keitles, old flast lock unskets, one and of which is as dangerous as the other, and such like things. Tooacco, which costs here system contours and whistocy, and he cited 115 Wall street here as having been purchased by the profits of the run and whistocy, and he cited 115 Wall street here as having been purchased by the profits of the most reductions and charten-zong people in the world, and the Christianization of Africa must be accomplished, if of all, by thack men. Ar. Lovel is therefore visiting this country now to arone the colore people to some degree of enthalshmin in egand to missions to farme. The Methods' missions in Lovera are the largest and menses weathy, and the Episcopal missions follow. They support nearly all the schools of the republic and self-their colore than they are supported and the ballets consts of them and self-their colores and in a for the rough their chairman, in beside the profits for his friends. He was returning home, and was shipwrecked and lost everything. A second time he was furnished with funds and went
